Workflow: Projects

What is Real?

In the long run, you should consider your R scripts as "real".

Why you should not consider your environment, "real"? Because with your R scripts (and your data files) you can re-create the environment. The harder part is to re-create your R scripts from your environment!

You'll either have to retype a lot of code from memory or you'll have to carefully mine your R history.